Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Than of All Others Put Together.

The following letter from a locality where Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is well known shows by the unprecedented demand for it that the medicine sells on its own merit. Mr. Thos. George, a merchant at Mt. Elgin, Ontario, says: "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell as much of it as I do of all other lines I have on my shelves put together. Of the many dozens sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I can personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and give it to my children with always the best results." For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson-Fowler Co., up-to-date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Croup

A reliable remedy and one that should always be kept in the home for immediate use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will prevent the attack if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson-Fowler Co., up-to-date druggists at Hopkinsville.

HIS HOPES BLASTED.

This is the true story of a discouraged and wrecked humorist. The victim has recovered entirely and counts it as one of the fortunate things of his life that, as a funny man, he was shipwrecked early.

A few years ago there was a student in one of the leading universities for who the unthinking part of the faculty—any university has some professors not guilty of thinking much—predicted what they called a brilliant future. The young man heard of what they said and believed it, too.

He was known as the college wit. He wrote alleged humorous pieces for the college publications, and when he made speeches at college dinners his auditors were convulsed. Every one seemed to like the youngster—whose name might be McAndrews, although it isn't.

McAndrews was all the more popular because he was working his way through college. He had lived most of his life in New Jersey. One day he was approached for a contribution for an athletic fund.

He frankly said he hadn't any money to spare, but he would give a public humorous lecture in the town hall if the university would rally round him. When he announced that his subject would be "New Jersey—travels in an unknown and foreign land," there was an immediate promise to rally.

And rally that university did. Word was passed around that it was going to be a great show. The glee club was called upon to rehearse grinds on New Jersey in general and on McAndrews in particular.

There was a large advance sale of tickets. McAndrews rose to the occasion. He worked early and late in writing funny things into the lecture. He called out all the alleged humorous things ever printed about New Jersey and rewrote them as his own. He picked out all the peculiarly named places in the state, such as Hohokus, and made them the scenes of the things he talked about.

McAndrews wasn't entirely satisfied with the words he wrote and soon decided that he must fortify them. He got an old brick and pounded it up fine. Then he took some white sand, that he got from a saloonkeeper, and mixed it with the pulverized brick. He bottled the mixture, sorted the bottles and labeled them as samples of New Jersey soil, to be passed around in the audience.

Something more was needed, and so he got some brown color flasks, filled them with water and labeled them "Jersey Lightning—Tanglefoot Brand." These also were to be passed around.

To add a finishing touch to the hilarity of the evening McAndrews had a map made, dividing New Jersey into three districts, which he called the Mosquito, Cranberry and Backwoods districts. Then he had stereopticon views made of the mosquitoes, the life size representations of which were as big as barn doors.

The night of the lecture came. The university president and two-thirds of the faculty were present. Scores of well-known townspeople came. A judge of the court of appeals and two supreme court justices in town came also.

From the moment McAndrews opened his mouth to say "according to the latest census returns New Jersey contains 3,729 square miles, 148,746 chicken coops and 3,897,236,541 mosquitoes" every one of his sentences was greeted with laughter or audible chuckles. His stereopticon pictures caused shouts of joy.

His samples of the soil and Jersey lightning were passed about eagerly. One of the tanglefoot bottles disappeared and a staid doctor of divinity on the faculty was accused of appropriating it. It was a night of great fun, and at its close McAndrews was besieged by scores with their congratulations.

The university president generously said it was the most distinguished audience assembled in that town, with the exception of one that George William Curtis once had. As a humorist, McAndrews was a howling success. The entire university was sure of the brilliant future awaiting him.

In that audience was a college girl, the chairman of the lecture committee of a neighboring girl's college. She, too, caught the enthusiasm of the moment and offered McAndrews the munificent sum of $25 to come to lecture to the girls.

He snapped it up as quickly as a get-rich-quick man does easy money. It was like finding a gold mine.

The girl chairman went home to boom the lecture. She advertised McAndrews as the renowned wit of his university, the coming humorist of the United States, the only legitimate successor that Mark Twain would ever have.

The night of that lecture came on, the lecture was given in the college chapel, one of those cold, blue places that are sometimes found in institutions established in the interest of some religious sect.

The college president sat on the platform and his face was grave. His whole aspect seemed to say:

"Young man, this is a holy place. Let no undue levity be attempted here."

McAndrews gave the lecture, and the audience laughed just once.

Years later, when McAndrews came to know Mark Twain, he plucked up courage to write Mr. Clemens to know if he would look that lecture over and say whether there was really anything funny in it. He got a letter in reply telling him to send it along.

Mr. Clemens returned the manuscript later with the remark that it was "quite good." McAndrews then and there gave up all hope of being a humorist.—N. Y. Sun.

MY LADY'S HEALTH.

DOUBTLESS health is beyond price, as it is the royal road to beauty. We will endeavor to show you how this great blessing may be cultivated or acquired without wealth. What is it that makes some of our young American women two of Nature's beautifiers, and those who want to have clear skins, bright eyes and rosy color will embrace every opportunity of being in the open air. More important than all of these, is that the young woman or middle-aged woman starts with a healthy womanly system. If she is dragged down or suffers greatly at stated periods, she is bound to have that dragged-out, worn-out look which goes with womanly weakness. But this is not difficult to cure, because a physician, who makes a specialty of diseases of women, has given to the world a medicine which is absolutely a cure for these weaknesses. We mean Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stands alone as a medicine which has been tested and recommended for the last thirty-eight years. It stands alone as the only medicine now on the market which is guaranteed to contain no alcohol or narcotics of any kind.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:
"Dear Sir—Your 'Favorite Prescription' brought me safely through that difficult period called change of life. I had hot and cold flashes, sick headaches, became excited, frustrated, nervous and irritable. My appetite was awful and for days I was unable to eat a fair meal. My aunt recommended me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it made a great change for the better. Within two weeks the unpleasant feelings had disappeared. I have a husband and eight children so have the care of a large family but was able to attend to my household duties without any difficulty and passed the period without any more trouble. I can recommend your Favorite Prescription as a grand medicine for women."
